PIERPOINT ADDS RESEARCH PARTNER

Pierpoint Financial Consulting is pleased to announce that Andrew Howieson has joined as Research Partner. Andrew brings more than 30 years' experience in global capital markets to Pierpoint, including his time as head of Global Corporate Strategy and Business Development for State Street Bank. Grounded with extensive experience in operations and internal audit management assignments for global financial institutions, Andrew's securities lending experience includes his tenure as Managing Director of a leading specialist agency lender; consulting to institutional investors and as co-author of important white papers focused on potential future developments for the securities lending market.

"We are delighted to welcome Andrew to the Pierpoint team," said Roy Zimmerhansl, Pierpoint Practice Lead. "Information and understanding are key pillars of the Pierpoint client proposition, and Andrew has brought clients deep insight on securities lending and market liquidity throughout his career. I was privileged to have worked with Andrew and had the benefit of his knowledge and perspective and look forward to him leading the Pierpoint research efforts."

Pierpoint Financial Consulting is focused on providing expert, independent consulting and research services to the full range of stakeholders in securities finance and collateral management. One key strength Pierpoint brings is its "insider's" knowledge of the business from the team of experienced practitioners drawn from across a wide range of services providers.
